

The Laslett

You know that friend of yours, the one with the perfect Notting Hill pad, swishy hair, dazzling job and hot husband? We hate her too, by the way. But listen, now you can pretend to have at least one of those things: the perfect west London address, thanks to the shiny new Laslett, the latest addition to the Living Rooms portfolio. It spans five listed Victorian townhouses and is like stepping into a dream version of your own home. You'll fall in love with everything: the Victoriana-cool, black-and-white-and-grey-tiled bathrooms; the views from the floor-to-ceiling windows; the bespoke furniture from Pinch and Race; the stacks of well-thumbed Penguin Classics; the walls tick-tacked with art from locals such as Toby Mott and the late Barry Kamen. At gin o'clock, trot down to the Henderson bar for a meaty sharing platter and a Notting Hill Collins. Opt for a room with a little living area, or 'spare room' as the Laslett calls it, and have breakfast brought up next morning by the young, fluffy-tailed staff. Eat croissants and granola, sip on coffee and gaze at the passers-by below, as you hatch a plan to get that job/hair/husband. We've done the first bit for you. BOOK IT Double, from £275 (thelaslett.co.uk; 020 3474 4140).

Prime time

August, for the carnival, so you can shake it out before sleeping it off in this townhouse haven.
